

Neurodiversity in the Workplace Workshop

Facilitator Bio

Liana Avendaño

Project Manager

Pronouns: They/Them (What is this?)

Construct the Present

www.ConstructThePresent.com

Liana is a nonbinary, neurodivergent, Mexican, queer person from Los Angeles, California. They have spent the last 4 years making Portland, Oregon home. Growing up as a millennial, Liana has worked in many different industries and learned the nuances of diversity, equity, and inclusion in various roles from front-of-house service to corporate consulting. In addition to their professional life, they have spent all of their adult life volunteering and organizing for communities that coincide with their intersecting identities. Liana has committed to the goal of advocating for workers who experience the world like them, or with difficulties created by the systems we exist within.

Liana has two cats, is an artist and musician, and loves a silly meme. These days Liana spends their time obsessing over HBO's Succession, decorating their home with trinkets and plants, watching bad reality tv, and sitting by the fire with their friends.

For more event information and registration:

<https://www.eventbrite.com/e/neurodiversity-in-the-workplace-diversity-equity-and-inclusion-workshop-tickets-204015665347>